

2 apologies
received on the same day

FROM: Flight Centre
SUBJECT: We would like to apologise.

Hi Shelly

Unfortunately due to an unforeseen human error, you may have received an email from us on Friday 14 June 2019 with the subject line "New Subject".

You will have received this email as you were formerly subscribed to databases under the Flight Centre Travel Group, including Flight Centre, Travel Associates, Student Flights or Cruiseabout NZ. This was a past Flight Centre email which was originally sent on 03 December 2018. We have investigated the error and can assure you this is not the result of any breach of data or confidentiality.

We wish to assure you that this is a one-off occurrence, and you will no longer receive any further email communications from us.

If you would like any additional support on this issue, please email us on reply@flightcentre.co.nz.

[FIXED LINK: REPLAY] How to Be a Bitch About Money: The 8 Policies Every Freelancer Needs to Avoid Getting Burned Like a Ham Sandwich

HAHAHAHA so in case you were trying to access last week's replay of, "How to Be a Bitch About Money," and you couldn't because of some bonehead gateway error, GOOD NEWS!

I made you a new link.

^^^ It's that one and it is A CHAMPION. No more flimsy-ass links up in here, because I am a relentless mother who refuses to let the Internet win.

And in case you have no idea what I'm talking about, see my last email on this topic below. LOVE YOU HAPPY WEEKEND!!!!

Hi Shelly

You might have got an email from us earlier today titled “New Subject Here”. Oops.

One of our humans pushed send on something they shouldn't have.

- We're sorry!
- Please be assured there's been no breach of your personal information – our data is safe.
- And please just go ahead and delete that email.

Have a great day and thanks for choosing Flight Centre.
